JANUARY 2023

FOR OUR COMMUNITY

GUIDANCE for GROWTH

Dianna B. Land, SEVP & HR & Marketing Manager

January is National Mentoring Month. Springs Valley recognizes the value of mentoring as an instrument of organizational learning. Our mentors help their mentees learn how to handle various situations and enhance development skills. Springs Valley's Mentorship Program has the potential to broaden skills, experience, and expertise throughout Springs Valley.

The Program is designed to become an integral part of Springs Valley's culture and to support Springs Valley's Mission, Vision, and Core Values. It is intended to help employees develop personally and professionally and is a tool for employee attraction and retention.

“Having Dianna as my mentor, a woman in senior management, has given me insight on what it means to take initiative and have confidence to continually strive to meet one's career objectives.”

Amanda Seng, Commercial Loan Processor

“As someone new to the banking world, having a mentor has greatly helped me hit the ground running at Springs Valley. I have been able to connect personally with my mentor and create a relationship where I can always ask for advice and knowledge. Our one-on-one meetings allowed me to open up about my career goals and how I can achieve them. My mentor helps provide encouragement and accountability for me to reach my goals.

“Having Dianna as my mentor, a woman in senior management, has given me insight on what it means to take initiative and have confidence to continually strive to meet one's career objectives. She is not only someone I can look up to, but someone whom I can trust. I know that even beyond the formal mentorship program, I can connect with Dianna at any time to ask questions and chat about ideas.

“Throughout my mentorship, I have been able to shadow in other departments to help grow my knowledge of the financial industry. Additionally, this has helped me connect with coworkers that I would not otherwise get to work with regularly. I have also had the opportunity to attend conferences which allowed me to network and learn even more about the banking industry.

“I would recommend any employee to take part in a mentorship program! Not only will you get to interact with different coworkers, but you also get to grow professionally and personally.”
